

If they ended up on the same pallet, your customer could get pretty hot under the collar

You don't get much further apart than ice cream and chillies. So what if you received a somewhat heated phone call from your best customer complaining about a mix up on his latest delivery from you and that if it happened again, you'd get the cold shoulder.

That wouldn't be cool!

So why not let us take the heat out of such a possible situation? There's no need to reach for the Tequila bottle, just call Elite Services and we'll be happy to tell you all about a speedy, cost effective and perfectly organized Sort and Segregate service that will have you dancing the salsa for evermore.

